Should these requests of the operators be refused by the Company a strike will be their only resource, and in that event the road will very likely be completely their up. The Order of Italicoan Telegraphers, although not an old organization, is over 22,000 atrong extending through every State in the Union, and has a protective fund of a50,000 and a general fund of $40,000.

Withe organization is in Fereration with nearly all railroad organizations, especially those of the locomotive engineers, conductors, bremens and trainmens organizations, and without operators the roads in the East-can do comparatively nothing.

Speaking of the comparison between East-can and Western railroad operators Chief Ramsey says that the Westerners are much the better off, as nearly all of the roads pay a minimum of over a65 per month, and some as high as $80, while there are many on the iteading and Jersey Central doing telegraph work, selling tickets and handling the block signals, holding the lives of the travelling public in their hands, who only get from $20 to $25 per month.

The Baltimore and Ohlo road recently gave its operators an increase of pay, and it is believed the Jersey Central will do likewise.

Chief Hamsey sand regarding the report that the operators on the Reading Road would be next attacked:

"it may not be long before that road will have to fall in line with other roads and pay operators decent salaries. If President McLeod wants a fight all he will have to do is to blow the whistle. The Roading's operators are thoroughly organized, although the officials of the Company make their men lie by asking them if they belong to the O. R. T. Of course they say no, because it involves their bread and butter.

"Another thing that is certain if the railroad companies of this country do not do better by their employees, every road in this country will be tied up during the world's Fair, and the men are thoroughly organized, and their finds, which are over $00,000 at present, will be sufficient to stand a long fight in 1893."
